SITUATION

You'll notice immediately that everything you need on a daily basis is on your doorstep in the Georgian market town of Alton. A short walk takes you to Waitrose supermarket, so picking up the daily essentials is a breeze. The high street is close by too with many familiar names, including Sainsbury's and M&S Food. The town has retained a wealth of independent shops, salons and boutiques. As befitting an area once famed for growing watercress, Alton hosts a weekly farmers' market selling local and seasonal produce. This love of food is reflected in the town's superb choice of eateries, from traditional pubs to restaurants offering world cuisines. If you enjoy history, the Curtis Museum boasts one of the finest local history collections in Hampshire. The glorious steam engines of the Watercress Line connect with Alton's train station. There are excellent road links with the A31 for Farnham, Guildford and Winchester, including secondary education and a sixth form college.
